

Jochen Welsch

CONSULTING. COACHING. TRAINING.

discover personality traits

improve your self-awareness

train your Entrepreneurial Capital

Self-Assessment & Live Online-Coaching

Zortify analysis

Being aware of your own traits is considered to be one of the strongest factor of a person's success. Differences between your own perception and those of others is subject to many distortions and (mis)-interpretations. That's why for entrepreneurs and executives improving in self-perception is seen as the most important factor for long-term success.

What we do

You do a Zortify online-questionnaire and then receive a detailed report on your personality traits. In a joint online coaching session with me you will discuss your report, uncover development potential and will have a close look to what it means for you being successful in business.

Your benefit

This analysis records existing resources that you can fall back on. In this way you can effectively master your own challenges in life and shape them positively. The measurement is a perfect starting point for further developing your hidden potential. In volatile environments anyone who wants to realize his/hers ideas needs some psychological "provisions" from which he/she can benefit in challenging situations.

Knowing the individual characteristics of your personality traits broadens the options for your action in developing personal and thus for expanding your own effectiveness.

In your coaching session, we will discuss your report personally and reveal your individual development potential. We will work specifically on the following three psychological dimensions: resilience, generalized optimism and self-efficacy - your Entrepreneurial Capital. So you will be able to be even more successful as an executive and entrepreneur in the long term.

Who is this coaching for

This coaching is aimed at young entrepreneurs, executives and managers who face their challenges and want to develop solutions. You must not be afraid to take a look to your own personality.

Methodology

The Zortify analysis is based on an intelligent integration of two information sources: traditional self-assessment data and text analysis. The text analysis is based on algorithms that are trained with artificial intelligence. The full, comprehensive Zortify analysis takes about 20 to 25 minutes and is done by you online.

On the one hand, the Zortify analysis measures the classic, stable characteristics of personality. Those are relevant for business success. Zortify also measures the personality traits that are considered as trainable. They provide snapshots that include resilience, generalized optimism and self-awareness - your Entrepreneurial Capital.

Your investment

315,- EUR

Price plus statutory VAT and including live online coaching

Prices for group or face-to-face coaching on request

Your coach

Jochen Welsch

„Only those who change and develop remain true to themselves.“

Contact

mail@iochenwelsch.de